Overview

Only a few production 33-foot convertibles have been built in recent years and the Riviera 33 certainly ranks among the most handsome of the lot. She's a well-proportioned boat with an aggressive, strictly business profile similar to the old Bertram and Egg Harbor. Hull construction is solid fiberglass, and like all Rivera models, she has a collision bulkhead forward and two watertight bulkheads aft. The molded tackle center in the cockpit is actually an entryway to the engine room. Powered with twin 210HP Cummins, this boat will cruise at 22-24 knots with a top speed of 29 knots. This is a stunning boat, as clean as it gets, and priced well below market value.
